CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

TUESDAY.....NOV. 24, 1874.

THE Express prints the Star's interview of BERNARD, in which that individual admits that he did not own a lot though he afterward sold it twice. This ought to make BERNARD almost the equal for honesty and veracity of the Express, which turned traitor to the party that made it and sold itself to the opponents of that party; and which, after admitting a man to be a good and useful citizen, for pay, agreed to and actually tried to blacken that man's character. BERNARD and the Express; the Express and BERNARD. Like and like. Such a paper with such a witness can prove anything except that he is a truthful man and it an honest journal.

Would Not be Satisfied.

From the Placer Herald we learn that an old resident of Auburn having heard and read a great deal about the soil and climate of Los Angeles valley, visited this part of the State; but after remaining in this valley a short time, he returned to Auburn, where, according to the Herald, he told the following story:

The land down there, he says, only in certain tracts is desirable, and that is held at such exorbitant prices that it requires a fortune to get a foothold. The country is largely owned by land speculators, who are spending thousands of dollars annually in advertising the county, in order to attract purchasers for their land. Of course, they must get their money back, and the man in search of a home must pay the price of advertising and two prices for his land, as the cost of being deluded. It is because that country has been advertised so extensively that most of the immigrants daily arriving in California go directly there.

Strange that the gentleman should find the good land only in certain tracts, and still more strange that it should require a fortune to get a foothold. He is sadly, perhaps wilfully, mistaken as to our land being held by speculators, and all the newspapers published in Los Angeles will testify as to the mistake about thousands of dollars being spent for advertising the country. We don't get the money, but we do tell the truth about our valley, and Auburn man is the only visitor not willing to testify to the fact.

The Years of Peter.

For more than a thousand years it passed from mouth to mouth as a tradition that the first Pope of Rome held the post for twenty-five years and that no successor of his would occupy it so long a time. In the early days sprang the saying and belief that if any Pope should live to complete a quarter of a century the church would fall. Various Pontiffs almost reached the fatal term, but died just before its expiration. These circumstances strengthened the belief in the truth of the tradition. In the beginning of the present century Pious VII, who was quite a saint and almost a martyr because of NAPOLEON'S persecutions, filled the office for nearly twenty-four years, beloved and revered by all the church, yet there was an immense apprehension that if he reached the mystic "year sof PETER" not only the papacy of Rome but Rome itself would perish' but he died just in time and relieved the apprehensions of the superstitions. Pious the IX, however, has passed over the mystic "years of PETER." Will the sudden end of the temporal power of the Pope be considered as fulfilling the ancient prophesy?

"That Big Grab."

We promised the Express a ventilation of its "Another Big Grab," and will now proceed to redeem that promise, premising at the outset that before we are through we shall produce facts to show that in place of Mr. BEAUDRY it was some of the ring in whose employ the Express is now laboring so zealously, who gobbled up the tract of land in question. On May 8th, 1868, Mr. T. A. SANCHEZ purchased at auction what is known as the Abila tract, but did not secure his deed until March 30th, 1869. In the course of time, the city sold to other parties 21 lots of Mr. SANCHEZ'S property. He experienced some difficulty in obtaining pay for this property, and the Express intimates that payment was only made through bringing to bear a powerful influence on certain members of the Council; but when it is known to whom Mr. SANCHEZ deeded a portion of the land he then received immediately after obtaining a title to it, and to that is added the general supposition that it was due to the disinterested influence of those gentlemen on the Council that Mr. SANCHEZ was enabled to obtain what rightfully belonged to him, we think it will be conceded that the Express has found the back of the sword sharper than its edge, and in drawing back to strike Mr. BEAUDRY it has severely wounded one or two of its employers. Mr. SANCHEZ obtained a deed for fourteen acres of the hill land about the Jewish Cemetery cañon on the 14th of November, 1870, and on the 16th of November, 1870 — two days after — he deeded to M. CORONEL and Y. SEPULVEDA a one-fourth interest, and on the same day he deeded S. H. MOTT, I. W. HELLMAN and DAVID WEISENBERG a one-half interest in the tract granted him by the city. In the proceedings of the Council for November 10th, 1870 when the petition of SANCHEZ for payment for the 21 lots sold was reported to the Council from the committee to which it had been referred, one member of the committee said it was an extraordinary proceeding as he was a member of the committee and had never seen the petition, nor did he know anything about the report granting the deed to SANCHEZ. Two other members of the Council also said it was extraordinary and when it came to a vote MORRIS, VEJAR, WORTENBERG and MARTINEZ voted in the affirmative. TOBERMAN, KING, CASWELL and ROEDER did not vote. Those are the names of the Councilmen and J. H. TURNER was Mayor. From this it will be seen that Mr. BEAUDRY was not a member of the Council nor does his name appear among those to whom Mr. SANCHEZ deeded the land given him by the city, or rather by the four Councilmen named above in place of the 21 lots sold out of his land. If there was "Another Big Grab" in this transaction, some of the Express backers and not Mr. BEAUDRY were the individuals who did the grabbing. Just who they were and how the grabbing was done we will state if the organ is not satisfied with what we have already given.

That Reservoir Scheme.

The property-owners on the slope and along the base of Fort Hill are alive to the danger to which they will be exposed and the damage they will sustain from the building of a reservoir on the apex of that elevation, and they are already beginning to express their determination to hold the city responsible for whatever loss they may incur through the carrying out of the scheme the Water Company now have before the Council. If the proposed reservoir is built it will certainly prove very damaging to a large amount of property, and as the decisions of the Supreme Court have already rendered null and void the exclusive franchise granted the Water Company by the city some time ago, all damage that may result to private property through an attempt to carry out the now illegal conditions of that contract or to carry out like conditions of the contract or privilege now sought to be obtained from the Council, will be recoverable from the city, thus imposing a heavy expense on the tax-payers besides deteriorating the value of a broad extent of now valuable city property. From the Pico House almost to the summit of Fort Hill people will retire to rest with the fear that the vast body of water above them will break away and carry them into eternity without a moment's warning as were the victims of the reservoir tragedy in Massachusetts a short time ago. A strong effort will be made at the session of the Council on Friday next to secure a majority in favor of the Water Company, and to prevent the consummation of an act which will inevitably involve much trouble, litigation and such a heavy expense, the people should take immediate and decisive steps.

The Rebuke of the Slanderers.

Since the exposure of the BERNARD slander against Mr. BEAUDRY and the presentation of the most conclusive proof that its authors and disseminators not only knew of the unfounded character of the malicious charges they were circulating, but positively refused to publish the evidence establishing the complete innocence of Mr. BEAUDRY of all unlawful or dishonorable complicity in the matter, the ring appears to be utterly confounded. The high-handed attempt to brand a worthy citizen with the commission of a criminal act for the purpose of injuring him in the estimation of his fellowmen, and thereby enabling the ring to place the control of our municipal affair in the hands of their creatures, has met that rebuke which exposed villainy should ever receive at the hands of an intelligent and honest community. The sword of justice has reached even farther. It has struck down the base slanderers and placed them in such a condition that, though they may still cherish and maintain the disposition to continue their nefarious practice of ejecting the slanderous poison, it will fall far short of its destined mark and hurt no one except those from whom it emanates. The convicted slanderer is a fangless serpent. Mr. BEAUDRY stands to-day as well in the estimation of those with whom he has lived for nearly a quarter of a century as he did erstwhile, when those who are now denouncing him as a criminal were wont to sing pæans to his praise and laud him as one of our most liberal and public spirited citizens, and his majority for Mayor will be increased by the votes of the many who, while he may not have been their first choice, will now support him through a conviction that the man against whom the ring will go to such extremes must be the truest and best man to stand between the people and the ring.

The Pacific Mail and the Railroads.

NEW YORK, November 21st.—The Pacific Mail Company has begun an action against the Union Pacific Railroad Company for $100,000 damages for alleged breach of contract. The two companies made a stipulation that one company should not adopt a rate of freight below the other and that the Union Pacific should send so much freight per month over the Pacific Mail Company's line, where ships were to be in readiness to take it. The Pacific Mail Company allege that it has abided by the agreement, but that the Union Pacific has failed to fulfil its contract. There was a clause in the agreement providing that each should be entitled to dissolve the contract upon thirty days notice. The Pacific Mail Company gave notice and the Union Pacific refused to come to an account, although it is alleged that it was debtor to the former company. Hence the suit. To-day an order was obtained in the Supreme Court to show cause why defendant should not furnish a bill of particulars.

NEW YORK, November 21st.—A European correspondence states that in a reply to the address of sympathy from the Catholic Congress at Bologne the Prince Archbishop of Breslau said a short time ago that the Germad Ecclesiastical laws have been purposely framed to destroy the divine institutions of the church and to subject the priests to the arbitrary rule of a non-Catholic Government, in order that in the end they might be driven from the country. The German Government has decided to prosecute the Breslau Schlesische Volks Zeitung, which copied the Bishop's letter from an Italian paper. The Archbishop, who is both an Austrian and a Prussian prelate, has so far been left undisturbed.

DIED.

WILKINSON—Drowned at sea on the night of Thursday, November 5th, Captain Fred. Wilkinson.

Truly we know not when the Son of Man cometh. Again death, the inevitable visitor, has stilled forever the heart-throbs of one whom we had learned to love; but we must not murmur: God hath given, and shall he not take to himself his own? Other sorrows time can efface, but when dear friends are taken from our midst our hearts refuse to be comforted. Did not Jesus weep at the grave of Lazarus? Like the lightning's flash, which gives to the beholder a feeling of awe, so came to us the sad intelligence that our friend had crossed the river to the unknown shore from whence there is no returning. The magic fingers of time had traced upon his brow only a few faint lines and scattered among his dark locks a few white hairs. Though cut off in the prime of life, his work on earth was finished at the moment when he was hurled from the deck of the vessel into the lap of ocean. The waves parted to clasp him in their cold embrace, and they will faithfully keep their trust till the sea shall give up her dead. We who were his friends are not permitted to drop a tear upon the grave where our loved one lies sleeping. He fell darkly, at the midnight hour; not a prayer or funeral anthem was chanted over his grave and not one flower is blooming above it. But God knoweth best. The ever-changing waves shall roll unceasingly above him till time shall be no more. Captain Wilkinson was loved and respected by those who knew him. He was a noble, generous-hearted man, a faithful friend and a kind, loving husband and father. He leaves a sorrowing widow and three children. May Christ the comforter be with them in this their great affliction and teach them to say, "Thy will, not mine, be done." Sleep on, noble heart! Undisturbed shall be thy slumber. Thou wilt not be forgotten; the place which thou wert wont to fill can be occupied by no other. Thou wilt never more be with us on earth; so farewell dear friend, and God grant that ere long we may meet in that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Co-operative Nursery and Fruit Company is called for Dec. 8th proximo.

The Steamer Orizaba arrived at 10 o'clock yesterday morning from San Francisco, with 160 passengers and 395 tons of freight.

Workmen yesterday commenced the construction of the new steps leading up to the High School building. They will be a great convenience to the teachers and scholars of the school during the wet season.

Mrs. Dr. Larkin lectured at the Fort street Methodist Church last night for the benefit of the Sunday School. The lecture treated of Bible scenery and was finely illustrated with a magic lantern.

A mass meeting of citizens who are opposed to rings, cliques and corrupt corporations is called for 8 o'clock this evening at Sterns' Hall. The object of the meeting as stated is to nominate a people's reform ticket.

We have received from the author a copy of Semi-Tropical California. It presents a neat typygraphical appearance and appears to be filled with interesting reading matter relative to Southern California. We shall examine and notice it more fully hereafter.

A lot of Italians got into a row at one of the dives on Los Angeles street Sunday evening and were arraigned before his honor, Judge Gray yesterday. They were fined five or ten dollars each, according to the demerits of their conduct and advised to keep the peace hereafter.

The reception of the "T. S. C.'s" tomorrow evening promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The attendance will be somewhat larger than that at the first reception and under the excellent management of the Club the dance will be conducted in a manner agreeable to all.

Goldsmith has a lot of cigars which he is selling at $2 50 per hundred. They are the best quality for the price that we have ever seen. A new lot will be in to-morrow which will be sold five for $1. They are expressly adapted to the candidates now in the field and their friends. We know of nobody who tries harder than Goldsmith to please his customers and no one succeeds better.

It is reported that Mr. A. B. Brown, the Superintendent of the bridge building for the Southern Pacific Company, proceeded to Spadra yesterday, and will examine the country beyond to San Bernardino, with regard to the bridges it will require. Mr. Madden went with him, and material for the construction of bridges on that road is already here, and will be forwarded as fast as wanted.

George Simpson, quite a notorious rough, was arrested here and lodged in jail last Sunday. He was a member of our pick and shovel brigade some time since, but effected his escape and went to San Bernardino. There he was soon arrested again for house-breaking. After placing him in irons, the officers started with their charge for Los Angeles. In the neighborhood of the Cucamonga Ranch, however, he again broke loose, and divesting himself of his inconvenient bracelets, made his way to this place on foot. Here he was soon apprehended by Officer Harris and arrested, as stated, last Sunday. It is to be hoped that the slippery gentleman will not get through the fingers of the officers so easily this time and that he will receive his deserts in San Quentin.

The Wilmington Enterprise in speaking of the harbor improvements at that place says: Enough has been done to develop the most satisfactory indications. It has been demonstrated that the bottom is favorable for dredging, and that the material is of such a consistency that the sides of the channel will not easily crumble and fill up the excavation. It is well known that there are no streams putting into the bay. Hence it will be readily seen that when a channel is once made it will require but little work to keep it open. We are now thoroughly convinced that it is merely a question of time and a reasonable outlay of money, to make our projected harbor improvements all that is necessary to meet the rapidly increasing demands of our rich back country.

MIND, SOUL AND HEART.

A Criticism on the Prize Essay.

EDITOR HERALD: Whilst reading in a recent edition of the HERALD an original composition on "Mind, Soul and Heart," it struck me that the author had laid herself open to a considerable amount of criticism. Some of my ideas on the subject I have ventured to give below.

To commence at the beginning: "In former times the idea of suffering was almost invariably connected with authorship," etc. That is to say that an ordinary person trying to realize to himself the sufferings that people in former times had to endure, would "almost invariably" have those connected with authorship brought before his mind. A statement like the above is simply ridiculous; non-literary people of whatever class thinking of the sufferings endured by any people or class of people, would probably in the first instance think of those endured by some particular sect or class for which that period had been remarkable; or, in the absence of such particular class or sect, their attention would probably be drawn to those which, through the backward state of civilization, people of their own class had suffered, or if wealthy people, to the sufferings of the poorer classes. Least of all, with the general run of people, would the idea of suffering be connected with authorship, for, having no experience themselves of what unsuccessful authors suffer and learning principally of the successful ones through their writings, etc., and knowing how large the proportion is of lazy scribblers to the really meritorious writers, they would be more inclined to think the good ones had earned their reward and that though some probably had not met with the success they deserved, that doubtless the majority had by a vagabond, good-for-nothing life well deserved the troubles they may have endured. Why should the idea of suffering be connected more with authors than with painters, sculptors, musical composers, etc., etc., who have had probably just as much to suffer. The writer goes on to say that "others were equally impecunious," but that these often lacked the "refined sensibilities which are indispensable to writers of lofty sentiments." Must not painters, sculptors, musical composers and others have equally refined sensibilities in order to excel? Again, it appears that these people of refined sensibilities sometimes secured to themselves a "comfortable existence" by "an advocacy of principles utterly revolting to their natures." An author who could so debase his talents could not be possessed of very "refined sensibilities."

"And was not this pain greater than physical suffering could be?" Why then endure this pain of their own making; these people of "refined sensibilities" were not obliged to accept this "comfortable existence." No doubt there are many ordinary people who would prefer dishonest competence to honest poverty, but then their sensibilities, I am afraid, would not be very refined. The writer can have but a small experience of authorship to say that now "the world readily recognizes the claims of writers upon its liberality, and maintains them not only in comfort but in luxury." At the present day there are, of course, very many more writers than in former times, and consequently considerable more suffering among that class, and although the successful ones often do live in comfort and luxury, still the unsuccessful ones do not stand in any better position at present than they did in earlier times.

"The poet * * * yet allows himself to become gloomy and morose." I think most of us who have read poetry and the lives of poets must know that such is not generally the case.

Again is it not a very strong statement to make that "none have the nobler, higher attributes so fully developed as those who have been refined through suffering?" No doubt some of those possessing the highest attributes have suffered much, but are there not just as many others equally gifted who have not gone through any great amount of suffering?

"—But for the agony of some hapless creature whose very life blood was wrung forth drop by drop in its production." What a number of drops of life blood and what agony such men as Shakspeare, Ghethe, Milton, Schiller, Byron and Moore must have had! what men of iron would they must have been to have lived as long as they individually did through this drop by drop process! yet the histories of their lives do not seem to say that they were stronger than other men.

The reading of poetry does not always cause pain as the writer of "Mind, Soul and Heart" would have us imagine; in fact I think I am justified in saying that pleasure is much more connected with poetry than pain, nor is it necessary to have one's mind in that state of acute and painful sensitiveness described by the author of "Mind Soul and Heat," in order to appreciate the beauties of any particular poem.

Thinking of something, it often occurs to us that we have done or thought of that particular thing before, and yet we cannot think when or how; so the author says, and it is undoubtedly the case; but why take it for granted that this thought or deed should have happened in some "former state of existence"? It is much more likely that we have thought of something similar or done some similar action a long time before, probably one not of sufficient importance to stamp itself firmly on our mind, but just enough to remind us of it when we again have such a thought or do a like action. Even should we have acted in a similar manner in a former state of existence or had a similar thought when in that state, is it not going rather far to say that "probably of all the punishment laid upon man for his first disobedience, this is the most painful"?

No doubt men in future ages will see many things which they now see "as through a glass darkly." Science is making such wonderful strides, notably within late years, that such a prediction may safely be made; but that all men will then be at "peace and love," seems day by day more doubtful.

The author, we must presume, has not suffered from the "inane sentiment of lackadaisical misses"—she is above such things; but what proof is there that that "strong, tender affection that comes once in a life," actually exists? I am afraid that nine-tenths of the mortals with which this world is peopled have not got minds strong enough for such a desperate passion, and that that "lackadaisical sentiment" the author speaks of so contemptously, more generally takes its place.

"—Deep as hell, from which it lifts the heart." Are we to infer, then, that those unfortunates, those lackadaisical ones, must always have their hearts in hell? Let us hope not.

Your faithful LAVRIL.

Mr. Prudent Beaudry.

[From Maj. Ben. C. Truman's book, "Semi-Tropical California."]

Mr. Prudent Beaudry is not a speculator. On the contrary, he is a cool-headed, clear-headed man of business, who possesses at once the faculty of forecasting the future to a very considerable extent, in conjunction with the nerve and the means to back his judgment when he makes up his mind that an investment is likely to be profitable. Two instances in his career as a real estate dealer go to prove this. A few years ago he purchased a tract of hill land in the northeast part of the city, at Sheriff's sale, for something less than $500. He was laughed at by the wiseacres, who asserted their belief that no house would ever be built on the tract. He has sold just about one-third of the tract and realized $5,000 for it. There are about forty residences on the portion sold. He purchased in the neighborhood of 40 acres in the western part of the city for about $1,500, and has realized $30,000 from the sale of lots and has Bellevue Terrace left, which might possibly be bought for $20,000. The terrace is a gem of a place, about six and one-half acres in extent, sloping beautifully to the west and south, embellished with four hundred orange, one hundred and twenty-five lime and lemon and seventy-five other fruit trees, besides a choice collection of foreign grapes, shrubbery, etc. A lovelier villa than this spot can be converted into cannot be imagined. Mr. Beaudry commenced operations here when he had to haul water from the zanjas in barrels to keep his young trees and vines alive. Now a network of pipes, with fifteen or twenty hydrants, supplied from his own reservoir, provides for full and complete irrigation.

"Young Teacher" Explains.

EDITOR HERALD: Will you permit me to inform "An American" where "Young Teacher" discovered that the Christian religion is tolerated by our laws. Art. XI of treaty entered into November 4, 1786, between the subjects of Tripoli, of Barbary and the people of the United States reads as follows: "As the Government of the United States of America is not in any sense founded on the Christian religion, as it has no character of enmity against the laws, religion or tranquility of Musselmen, and as the States never have entered into any war or act of hostility against any Mahometan nation, it is hereby declared by the parties that no pretext arising from religious opinions shall ever produce an interruption of the harmony existing between the two countries."

Now this solemn treaty, approved by Washington and the early fathers, is wrong, or "An American" is mistaken when he calls this nation a Christian Republic.

I would refer "An American" also to Art. 15 of treaty between the Dey and Regency of Algiers and the United States, ratified February 11, 1822, in which the foregoing doctrine is substantially reiterated. Again, if "An American" is right in his views as to this being a Christian Republic, why do the ministers of religion besiege the halls of legislation continually to have God inserted in the Constitution and to have Christ recognized in our organic law as a ruler among nations.

In conclusion, I would suggest to "An American" that it would be in better taste to prove that I have taken ridiculous positions on this question than to give his ipse dixit for argument—that it is a sign of weakness to use questionable raillery for logic.

YOUNG TEACHER.

The Entertainment Last Night.

The complimentary soiree tendered to Miss Dominga Olivas at Turn-Verein Hall last night, drew a flattering mark of esteem from our citizens and the hall was well filled. The programme was admirably arranged and carried out with full satisfaction to all present, although it was found necessary to change the arrangement of the parts considerably. We cannot specify all of the features of the entertainment, as it was quite lengthy, but will content ourselves simply with a brief mention of the participants. Miss Olivas, decidedly the favorite of the evening, was in her best voice and carried the audience with her in every effort. Her voice is remarkably sweet and well trained. The lady was the recipient of frequent and loud encores. Miss Rose Kelley performed upon the piano in a most acceptable manner in solos and overtures, and Miss Rachael Edelman in her delightful songs was received with hearty plaudits. Some duets sung by Maj. Sacriste and sister took the house by storm; they were not only sung well but also well acted in accordance with the spirit of the pieces. Prof. Arevalo, Mr. Giunette, Prof. Havell and Mr. A. Redwell added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion by the various parts which they assumed in the role musicale.

The poem—"A legend of the San Gabriel Mission Bells"—by Mr. A. T. Hawley was finely composed and commemorated a beautiful legend. As a conclusion of the entertainment a series of tableaux were presented, illustrative of the poem. The four scenes were as follows:

1. ANGUSTI AS AND DON RAFAEL—THE PARTING.

"I see you smile. No doubt you think
Some Spanish maiden waited his return.
Well, you are right."

2. THE TREACHEROUS ARROW.

"As the story goes,
Angustias and Don Rafael kept true faith
Through all the changing seasons. But one day
A treacherous arrow struck the soldier low."

3. THE FATAL LETTER.

"Ah! little thought she, when with eager haste
She caught the letter from the bearer's hands
And tore it open, that within its folds
Was hidden an arrow which should pierce her heart."

4. THE SPIRIT'S FLIGHT.

"At last one evening as she sat and gazed
Upon the slant beams of the westering sun,
Thinking that they too shone above his tomb,
She started up, her wan face wreathed with smiles
Celestial in their sweetness, and her lips
Murmured, as if in ecstacy, 'The Bells!
'It is the Angelus, and Rafael hears!'
And then her stainless spirit took its flight,
And those who watched her caught a dying strain
Of ravishing melody from golden harps
And songs seraphic and divinely sweet."

Altogether, the affair was a complete success, and we congratulate Miss Olivas as well as the amateurs who participated in it upon the pleasant result.

SECTION 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly, attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever to awe, restrain, hinder, or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for a different person for any office than he intended or desired to vote for, or who, being Inspector, Judge or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces, or attempts to induce, any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise thereof, to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 61. Every person who wilfully violates any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to elections is, unless a different punishment for such violation is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

The friends and supporters of the foregoing ticket are determined to see that a fair expression of public preference shall be had at the coming city election, and in view of the fact that bribery and other corrupt practices have heretofore prevailed in our municipal elections, have, by voluntary subscription, secured an ample fund and adopted the necessary measures to prosecute every offender.

The committee having this matter in charge have employed detectives to aid in the enforcement of the law. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid to any person who may give information which will lead to the conviction of any person guilty of a violation of the code above quoted or any other provision of the Penal Code relating to elections. Such information may be reported to the District Attorney, who will give all necessary information on the subject.

THE DELINQUENT LISTS of the various counties of the State, for the 24th and 25th Fiscal years, (1872-3—1873-4) are now in my hands for collection. Many persons are delinquent for small sums upon personal property, and are urged to examine the rolls in the hands of the Tax Collector of their respective counties and to make immediate payment. The law is imperative, that the payment of the State tax for these years must be enforced, and unless voluntary payments are made at once, heavy costs will be incurred by the delinquents,
